WANT TO SPEND SPRING BREAK AT CAMP?!?!?!

The College of Arts and Sciences and the University Writing Center offering an intensive workshop for PhD students who are writing their dissertations or have found their writing progress stalled.

Participants will spend the majority of their time writing; however, the workshop will also include brief discussions on topics of common interest to dissertation students, such as motivation, goal setting, time management, and the writing habits of successful and prolific academic writers.

The workshop will run March 28-April 1st, 10-3:30

The writing center will provide time, space, and professional support to help students progress on their projects. Lunch will also be provided. Those who have previously participated in a dissertation boot camp at the University of Delaware are also welcome to apply.

To apply, participants will write submit a completed application form (application accompanies this email). In addition, faculty advisors must nominate their students for this workshop—a brief e-mail will suffice. Applicants will be chosen based upon time to degree completion, the importance of the workshop at this stage of the project, and broad disciplinary representation.

APPLICATIONS, INCLUDING ADVISOR SUPPORT EMIALS - ARE DUE MARCH 8th emailed to Dr. Melissa Ianetta at boot-camp@win.udel.edu

The application form is available at http://www.cas.udel.edu/writing-center/Pages/Dissertation-Boot-Camp.aspx

Please complete all of the fields, save the document using your last and first names (Example: McCamleyMichael.docx), and send it as an e-mail attachment to boot-camp@win.udel.edu.